Love is a beautiful thing.

Everyone feels it at some point.

Some love food, objects, places.

Others love people and pets.

Nobody deserves to live without it.

In their life. Feeling love for

Someone and knowing the person would never feel the same about you feels terrible and being unable to decide if you should tell them and risk your friendship by doing so, or lock your feelings away in your heart, never to be told.
